PRESIDENT HARDING ADMITS HIS ADMIRATION FOR APT IMPOSTER

then a Cleveland business man but since Governor of Ohio helped out in the hour of need "a cousin by the name of Herrick from Virginia who needed carfare home." But gradually Mr. Harding ceased to think of it, until the other day he received a letter from Colonel Christian, recalling the visit of the "Virginia" cousin, and saying that he himself had been recently victimized in a similar way.

"I am in receipt of your letter," President Harding wrote in reply "in which you tell me of the call upon you by the breezy and companionable chap who, after the fashion of the gentleman who was named Harding one day, Scofield another day, and Herrick another day, took you in for a small loan which would accommodate him on his virtuous way. I can only sympathize with you. You remember the chap who represented himself to me as a Harding from 'Old Virginia,' and I recall that I presented him to you and that he took you in as well as me, and that you and he fought over some of the battlefields of the Civil War without your detecting any fraud in him, but you did escape being touched as I was for a small draft upon my cash account.

"Enjoy Being Buncoed"

"Somehow, I have always enjoyed being buncoed by that fellow. He was so clever about it that he skinned me without wounding me. One encounters so many confidence men in the activities of our present-day life that it is a pleasure to meet up with an artist who can skin you without your having felt it. The thing that gets on my nerves most is the cruder and bolder confidence man who tries to put something over on me, and I know that he is trying to do it, and yet he thinks me susceptible enough to be wholly innocent of his plans.

"In other words, when you are taken in it is a joy to be taken in so beautifully that you haven't the slightest knowledge of it until you come to a later realization that a promised loan is not returned. I do not know but that it is a good thing that we have some of them in our midst at all times. It serves to remind us that one needs to be cautious without being suspicious, and also that the world is full of wonderful talents which, if only applied in righteous way, might result in notable accomplishment. Moreover, I think it brings us to a helpful degree of humility to be reminded that there are smart chaps who can take us in without our even suspecting it.

U. S. NAVY BAND GIVES CONCERT

The United States Navy Band, which came through the Canal on the U. S. S. Henderson, the navy transport, which arrived here today bearing the Presidential party, gave a delightful concert in the Coliseum Theatre this afternoon from 2 to 3 o'clock. The theatre was packed notwithstanding the uncertainty of the location, the program calling for the concert to be given at the Governor's House, but owing to the rain was transferred to the Coliseum Theatre through the courtesy of W. D. Gross, owner.

The concert given this afternoon included a program containing both popular and classical airs. Each number was encoored until a second number was required, which was given without stint. The band boys seemed to enter into the spirit of the occasion as did the responsive audience.

The U. S. Navy Band is under the leadership of Charles Bender, a Kiwanian. The band was sent on the trip through the courtesy of Capt. R. L. Leigh, now Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, and formerly commanding officer of the U. S. S. Tennessee. Leigh is also a Kiwanian.

HENDERSON IS LARGE CRAFT

The U. S. S. Henderson, carrying the Presidential party through Alaskan waters came through the Panama Canal up the coast in fine weather, to Bremerton, under command of Capt. Holland Buchanan and commanding a crew of 450 men. It left Hampton Roads June 1 and made several stops in the Canal Zone, and at San Diego, San Pedro and San Francisco.

The Henderson underwent a thorough cleaning and renovation at Bremerton, preparatory to taking the distinguished party to Alaska. The construction of an enclosed space on the bow of the top deck is a new addition to the ship.

The vessel was finished early in 1917, work having been rushed on her after the war declaration. She is of 10,000 tonnage, with a speed of 12 and one-half knots.

The President is occupying the cabin especially constructed for the commanding officer, which tops the deck. This cabin has two connecting bedrooms.

MAKES STATUE OF PRESIDENT

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—Ella Buchanan, whose father was editor of the Illinois State Journal and a friend of Abraham Lincoln, has completed a statue of the Great Emancipator which is said to differ radically from any other yet modeled.

As represented by Miss Buchanan.

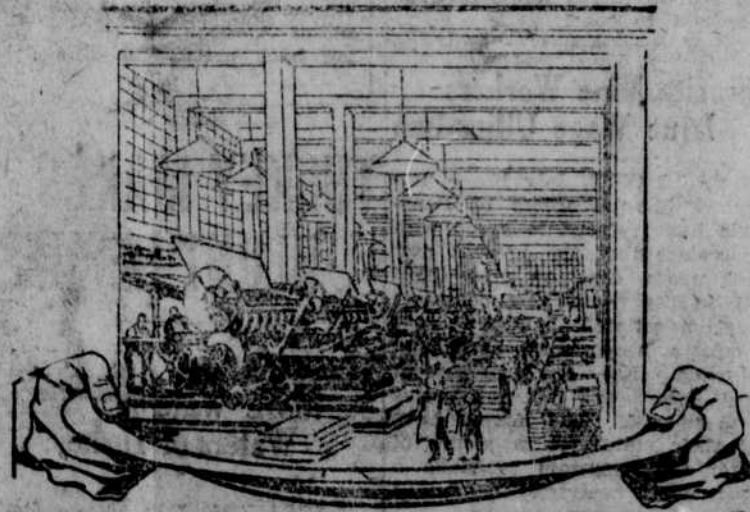

Lincoln is still in his youth. He stands hatless beside the stump of a tree, holding an axe in his hand, gripped close up to the bit. His gaunt figure is loosely clad, with shirt open at the throat, trousers baggy at the knees and stuffed into cowhide boots. His gaze rests on the stump, where a baby squirrel nestles. On his face is an expression of whimsical tenderness.

P. T. Draper, engineer for the Standard Oil Company, left on the Admiral Evans for Ketchikan on business for the company.
